

Battle of Moscow: fate of the PE-2 crew (1941): continuance of search

Written by Sadovnikov S.I., Katkov S.M.
Thursday, 01 September 2022 04:17

Sadovnikov S.I., Katkov S.M.

Battle of Moscow: fate of the PE-2 crew (1941): continuance of search

Annotation

In the article was present the results of family members of the PE-2 crew tracing in Russia, Belarus and Ukraine. The records from the family archives of V.G. Kulak, A.Ya. Zhigaev and documents of the Central Archive of the Ministry of Defense recreated the tragic and heroic everyday life of the Great Patriotic War of 1941-1945.

Лейтенант Г.Д. Кулак. Семейный архив Чернецких (Днепропетровск). Вестник архивиста. 2012. № 3.

Battle of Moscow: fate of the PE-2 crew (1941): continuance of search

Written by Sadovnikov S.I., Katkov S.M.
Thursday, 01 September 2022 04:17

Keywords

Archive, source, Battle of Moscow, Zhigaev A.Ya., Kulak G.D., Rubinstein Ya. Sh., Air Force of Red Army, family archive, Central Archive of the Ministry of Defense

Download the article: pdf

About the authors

Sadovnikov Sergey Ivanovich - senior researcher, Research Institute for the Development of Professional Education, PhD in History, Moscow; 8-916-807-20-60; sadovnikovs@yandex.ru

Katkov Sergey Mikhailovich - researcher of the Geological Institute of the Russian Academy of Sciences (GIN RAS), Candidate of Geological and Mineralogical Sciences, Moscow; 8-926-340-73-05; sergkat@yandex.ru

Battle of Moscow: fate of the PE-2 crew (1941): continuance of search

Written by Sadvnikov S.I., Katkov S.M.

Thursday, 01 September 2022 04:17

You can read completely article in the russian historic-archival magazine “The Herald of an Archivist”. Read more about terms of subscription here .

Полностью материал публикуется в российском историко-архивоведческом журнале ВЕСТНИК АРХИВИСТА. Ознакомьтесь с условиями подписки здесь .